

I am thinking that an author note may be of interest.

I have recently completed Chapter 33. It is just one page.

Some time ago, somewhat serendipitously I was reading about fantasy clocks and watching videos of them.

I got the idea of there being a fantasy clock at La Flava Floro.

Writing the first half of the page was straightforward.

However, when trying to think of how to produce a design, writing became more difficult. I tried various things, at various times. Yet none seemed to be right.

Yet I did not want to totally remove from the novel the idea of there being a fantasy clock at La Flava Floro.

So Chapter 33 is now just one page, with no specific solution, yet mention of a possible route to a solution.

I am enjoying writing the novel.

William Overington

Thursday 19 April 2018