

I like to write song lyrics. Alas, I do not play any musical instrument and I am not able to transcribe the melody to which I sing the song into a musical score.

Yet I need to make a record in permanent form of the melody. A record that hopefully can be a stepping stone to a singer singing and recording the song.

So, I have recorded me singing the song and embedded the file in this publication, so as to make a record in permanent form of the melody.

I made the recording earlier today, Wednesday 13 August 2014, on a Nokia 206 mobile telephone. On the Nokia 206 mobile telephone the file was recorded as a .amr file of 137 kB.

I sent the file to my email account and it arrived as a .wav file of 1366 kB. I have embedded the .wav file in this publication. The file plays for 1 minute 27 seconds. Yet this publication is under 924 kB, so some compression or conversion of the file has taken place during the publication process.

Please know that the font used for this publication is my personal font that is made from my handwritten artwork, as a handwritten font inspired by a Venetian font from the 1470s.
